

Disclaimer

The information on www.thesouthtexasbusinesslawyers.com including our posts, videos, forms, content and the information presented on it, and the Firm's social media channels, including but not limited to YouTube, Instagram, Facebook, Twitter, and LinkedIn (collectively, the "Website") is made available solely for educational purposes, to provide general information and a general understanding of law and business issues of interest to businesses. The Website does not provide, and is not intended to provide, specific legal or business advice. Every legal situation is different, and you should never take, or fail to take, any action with actual, or possible, legal consequences without first seeking the advice of, and establishing an attorney-client relationship with, a lawyer licensed to practice law in your state. The Website is not intended to be, and should not be used as, a substitute for engaging such an attorney or as a substitute for seeking the business advice of other qualified professionals, such as accountants, financial advisers and business consultants, whenever appropriate.

Transmission and receipt of the information on the Website is not intended to solicit or create, and does not create, nor does sending an email to this Firm or leaving a voicemail message at this Firm, create, any attorney-client relationship between: (1) The South Texas Business Lawyers (the "Firm") or any attorney working at the Firm; and (2) any person or entity. No attorney-client relationship can be created with the Firm, or any of its attorneys, unless and until a written engagement letter, prepared by the Firm, has been executed by the Firm and its client. Please note that email messages and other information provided to the Firm by any person or entity that is not a client of the Firm are not privileged and may be disclosed to third parties, except as otherwise provided in our Privacy Policy.

Neither the Firm, nor any of its attorneys, owners or members, is responsible for any actions a reader or viewer of the information on this Website or any other person or entity may take, or fail to take, based on information or material on the Website, nor is the Firm, or any of its attorneys, owners or members, responsible for any consequences resulting from that place, or relating to it, whether directly or indirectly.

The Firm has taken reasonable measures to keep the information on the Website accurate, complete and up-to-date, and neither the Firm, nor any of its attorneys, owners or members, is responsible for any damage or loss related to any information on the Website that is inaccurate, incomplete or out-of-date.

From time-to-time, guest bloggers write articles or are in videos that are published on the Website. Guest and guest bloggers often have expertise in areas, other than the law, of which the Firm has limited, if any, knowledge. Neither the Firm, nor any of its attorneys, owners or members, is responsible for any damage or loss related to any information contained in articles or videos by guests or guest bloggers published on the Website.

To the extent any communication on the Website relates to tax issues, such content is not intended or written to be used, and cannot be used, by any taxpayer for the purpose of avoiding penalties that may be imposed on any taxpayer by the Internal Revenue Service.
